Two of their detectives finally succeeded in locating Robinson in this city, where for several weeks he had been living at a downtown hotel and spending money lavishly at near-by sum-mer resorts. Living with him was a young man named Joseph Duddy, whose acquaintance he had made in Toledo, but who, so far as is known, was not concerned in the Grand Rapids robbery.

On June 15 the two detectives found Robinson and Duddy dining in the cafe The detectives belonged in Philadelphia. and in consequence had no authority to make arrests here without a warrant They therefore telephoned to headquarters to send an officer. Inspector Norton was just leaving head-quarters to attend the graduation of the oldest of his seven children. Without hesitation he accepted the assignment and hurried to the cafe to meet the detectives. On learning of the dangerous character of Robinson, and of his propensity to shoot on the slightest occasion, the inspector picked up two of his brother officers on the street, which made a party of five to accomplish the arrest.

Upon entering the cafe the party at once walked toward the table where Robinson sat with his companion. It was midafternoon and the cafe was filled with men and women, laughing and joking. As the police approached Robinson glanced up and in an instant was on his feet. He drew his revolver quickly, saying, "You'll never take me alive." Then there was a shot. Inspector Norton grabbed Robinson, who managed to shake him off, and broke away. Again Robin-son fired his revolver, and Norton fell with a bullet wound just under the heart. He died before he reached the hospital.

TAKE COAL MINES, CONGRESS!

New York, July 17.-Resolutions calling upon Congress to take possession of the coal mines of Colorado, to hold them in coal mines of Colorado, to hold them in trust, and to operate them in the interest of both miners and public, were unani-mously adopted tonight at a mass meet-ing held in Webster Hall.

The keynote of the meeting voiced by representatives of all political parties and of organized labor was government ownership not only of Colorado and other mines, but of other public service cor-mines, but of other public service cor-porations. Amos Pinchot, in an address read in his absence, said:
